Grievance Details :	I wish to register a complaint against Flipkart regarding the cancellation of my confirmed smartphone order. Order ID: OD338933880089907100 Payment Reference ID: PZT2610201335HMO1G01 Bank Reference ID: 743327462996298361985 62 Product: Redmi 13C 5G (8GB RAM, 256GB storage) Order Date: 20 October 2026 Cancellation Date: 25 October 2026 Amount Paid: ₹14,940 I come from a farming family, and purchasing a smartphone is a significant financial expense for me. I waited for Flipkart's sale specifically to purchase a good smartphone at an affordable price within my budget. I made this purchase after carefully considering the price and relying on the order confirmation. My order was confirmed on 20 October 2026 and processed by the seller on 21 October 2026. Until the afternoon of 25 October, the order page continued to display "Arriving tomorrow by 11 pm." However, Flipkart subsequently cancelled my order, stating that the seller had not passed its mandatory quality checks. I believe this situation raises concerns about Flipkart's seller verification and quality-control processes. Customers place orders through Flipkart with the reasonable expectation that sellers listed on the platform meet the platform's applicable requirements. If the seller failed mandatory quality checks, I request an explanation of why the issue was identified only after my order had been confirmed and processed, rather than before the customer was allowed to rely on the purchase. I request that Flipkart take responsibility for addressing the inconvenience caused by this seller-related issue and review its processes to help prevent similar experiences for other customers. Before the cancellation, I contacted Flipkart customer support several times. A senior customer-support agent assured me that the phone would be delivered by the promised date and stated that compensation would be provided if the order was cancelled. I have retained an audio recording of this conversation. After cancelling my order, Flipkart offered 500 SuperCoins on the condition that I place a fresh order for the same product within 10 days. I do not consider this an adequate resolution because it requires another purchase and does not address the loss of the original sale price or the assurances given by customer support. Furthermore, the original Redmi 13C 5G (8GB RAM, 256GB storage) that I ordered is now displayed as out of stock on Flipkart, with all the displayed colours and storage variants marked unavailable in my screenshot. Therefore, Flipkart's suggestion that I place a fresh order for the same product within 10 days to receive 500 SuperCoins does not provide a practical resolution while the product remains unavailable. I request that Flipkart consider this issue when deciding on a fair remedy. I also tried to find an affordable alternative which are available during the time when i ordered my Redmi 13C 5g mobile . The Redmi 14C 5G (6GB RAM, 128GB storage) was displayed at ₹16,999, with an offer price of ₹15,749 subject to applicable bank offers and eligibility. However, this alternative subsequently became unavailable. Other phones I considered were also unavailable or more expensive. Since the original sale has ended, I have lost the opportunity to purchase the phone I had planned for at the price I could afford. As a student from a farming family, I cannot easily increase my budget to purchase a significantly more expensive phone. I had planned this purchase carefully around the sale, and the cancellation has caused considerable inconvenience and financial difficulty. I respectfully request the National Consumer Helpline to facilitate a fair resolution with Flipkart. My preferred resolution is: Fulfilment of my original Redmi 13C 5G order at the confirmed price. If the original model cannot be supplied, consideration of an equivalent or better smartphone at the same effective price, without requiring me to bear a substantial additional cost. Fair compensation for the inconvenience, the loss of the original sale opportunity, and the assurances given by customer support that were not honoured. An explanation of the seller-related cancellation and a review of the processes that allowed my order to be confirmed before the seller failed the stated quality checks. I have supporting screenshots of my order confirmation and delivery timeline, the cancellation reason, the 500 SuperCoins offer, and the alternative Redmi 14C 5G listing showing its price and subsequent unavailability. I have also retained the customer-support audio recording and can provide it if required. I request that my circumstances as a student from a farming family be considered and that Flipkart be asked to provide a fair and meaningful resolution rather than only a conditional SuperCoins offer.
